

PO201-15 Political Theory From Hobbes

20/21

Department

Politics & International Studies

Level

Undergraduate Level 2

Module leader

Nicola Mulkeen

Credit value

15

Module duration

10 weeks

Assessment

100% coursework

Study location

University of Warwick main campus, Coventry

Description

Introductory description

Political Theory from Hobbes invites students to critically confront the ideas of some of the most important western (predominantly) European political and social thinkers since about 1640, with special reference to their best-known works. These include Hobbes's Leviathan, Locke's Second Treatise of Government, Rousseau's Discourse on Inequality and On the Social Contract, Wollstonecraft's A Vindication of the Rights of Woman, J. S. Mill's On Liberty, Mill and Harriet Taylor's The Subjection of Women, and Frantz Fanon's The Wretched of the Earth. The module will also consider how these ideas help us think about contemporary debates in political theory, such as debates about exploitation, marriage, and hate speech.

The module builds on ideas explored in Introduction to Politics during your first year, and it leads towards the third year module, Issues in Political Theory, which deals with present day argument about social justice and the relations between individuals, the state and communities.

Module aims

This module aims to give you an understanding of the political philosophy of some of the most important European writers from 1640 onwards. You will be encouraged to read widely in both the primary and secondary literature concerning these writers. We aim to develop your understanding of how these thinkers' political convictions are shaped by their views about morality, human nature, and the nature and history of social interaction.

Outline syllabus

This is an indicative module outline only to give an indication of the sort of topics that may be covered. Actual sessions held may differ.

tbc

Learning outcomes

By the end of the module, students should be able to:

- Interpret and assess critically the best-known texts of some of the most important western European political and social thinkers from Hobbes to Fanon.
- Demonstrate an understanding of how political thought relates to issues concerning human nature, history and morality.
- Confront and assess complex sets of ideas in political theory, and present and defend your point of view, both orally and in writing.

Indicative reading list

tbc

Subject specific skills

tbc

Transferable skills

The module provides students with opportunities to acquire and to develop the following key skills:

Critical thinking and analytical skills. This involves identifying premises and conclusions of arguments; determining whether the conclusions follow from the premises; and understanding the practical implications of theoretical commitments.

Close textual analysis skills. This involves interpreting a complex text, and distilling from it various interconnected lines of argument.

Study

Study time

Type	Required
Lectures	9 sessions of 1 hour (6%)
Total	150 hours

Type	Required
Seminars	9 sessions of 1 hour (6%)
Private study	132 hours (88%)
Total	150 hours

Private study description

tbc

Costs

No further costs have been identified for this module.

Assessment

You must pass all assessment components to pass the module.

Assessment group A1

	Weighting	Study time
Assessment	100%

Feedback on assessment

tbc

Availability

Courses

This module is Core optional for:

- Year 2 of UIPA-L2L8 Undergraduate Politics, International Studies and Global Sustainable Development