Research element

Students' assessment entails writing up a review of literature. To complete this assessment task they are expected to search and review academic literature which requires them to possess an understanding of research findings from existing published research.

Interdisciplinary

Participants of the module are drawn from various disciplines including education. Students are thus encouraged to engage leading change (and related concepts) as an interdisciplinary subject that is applicable to different institutional contexts.

International

The module draws on international case studies and literature and students are expected to develop awareness of global influences on local educational systems.

Subject specific skills

Students should demonstrate a critical understanding of:

- the underlying values, theories and concepts relevant to educational leadership and management and their application
- the diversity of learners, teachers and leaders and the complexities of educational change and educational contexts
- the complexity of the interaction between learning and local and global contexts, and the extent to which participants (including learners, teachers and leaders) can influence change and improvement
- the societal and organisational cultures, structures and purposes of educational systems, and the possible implications for learners, teachers, leaders and the learning process
- constructively critique theories, practice and research in the area of educational leadership and management
