Description

Introductory description

PH144 - Mind and Reality

Module aims

The aim of the module is to introduce students to a number of central problems in the philosophy of mind, metaphysics, and epistemology.

Outline syllabus

This is an indicative module outline only to give an indication of the sort of topics that may be covered. Actual sessions held may differ.

1. Argument from Illusion, Conflicting Appearances, and Perception.
2. Propositional Knowledge.
3. Scepticism
4. The Knowledge Argument
5. Physicalism and the Causal Argument.

6. Existence and Descriptions
7. Depiction, 'How do Visual Works of Art Represent?'
8. The Problem of Induction.
9. A Priori Knowledge.

Learning outcomes

By the end of the module, students should be able to:

- By the end of the module students should have an understanding of the central problems in epistemology, metaphysics, and mind discussed in the module, and should have an understanding of the central concepts that frame these problems.
- They should be able to clearly articulate the opposing positions in those debates, and be able to outline arguments in support of those different positions.
- They should have a good understanding of the key literature discussed, and able to analyse and critically evaluate the arguments for and against the positions defended in the key literature.
- They should be able to demonstrate their knowledge and understanding in speech and writing.
- They should be able draw connections between the key ideas and arguments discussed in the module to other problems and debates in philosophy.
