PH998 Topics in Philosophy of Mind and Language

Module web page

Module aims

This module will address some central topics in the Philosophy of Mind and Language. The main aim is to engage in detail with some arguments that have played a central role in contemporary discussions. Possible topics include: the role of sense in accounting for meaning and understanding; truth-conditional accounts of meaning and understanding; propositional attitude reports and their connection with propositional attitudes; the nature of linguistic understanding; anti-individualism in the philosophy of mind; the nature of perceptual experience.

Outline syllabus

This is an indicative module outline only to give an indication of the sort of topics that may be covered. Actual sessions held may differ.

Week 1. Frege on sense and reference.
Week 2. Putnam on anti-individualism about language.
Week 3. Burge on anti-individualism about mind.
Week 4. Knowledge as a state of mind.
Week 5. Nagel on What it is like.
Week 7. Critical discussions of talk of what it is like.
Week 8. Naïve Realism.
Week 9. Naïve Realism and disjunctivism.
Week 10. Disjunctivism, illusion, and hallucination
