Module aims

The module explores how performance relates to many fields of contemporary social, cultural and technological activity, and foregrounds the profoundly interdisciplinary nature of contemporary performance. It draws on the excellent environment at Warwick for interdisciplinary engagement. It activates the inquisitive and acquisitive characteristics of Performance Studies through a series of lectures and seminars in term one that are followed by a practical realisation of a specific issue/enquiry in which performance intersects with a non-arts discipline in the second term. The module aims to occupy theoretical spaces akin to that propounded by Richard Schechner in Between Theatre and Anthropology (1985) in four disciplinary fields, spaces variously populated by analogy, shared practices and interdependencies. The mapping of unfamiliar territory continues in the practical exploration in the second half of the module in which students pursue an interdisciplinary enquiry through practical work culminating in a performance and subsequent critical review.

Practice is woven into the sessions in Term 1 with Term 2 exposing students to the supporting competencies required to sustain creative practice, specifically writing a proposal, generating publicity material and documenting the work.

Outline syllabus

This is an indicative module outline only to give an indication of the sort of topics that may be covered. Actual sessions held may differ.

TERM 1

*Week 1: Everything is Interesting

On the desirability, difficulty and dialogues of interdisciplinarity [Tim/Silvija]

*Week 2: Law I (Nadine)

*Week 3: Law II (Nadine)

Indicative texts/practitioners: The Colour of Justice (Norton-Taylor), The Merchant of Venice (Shakespeare), The Crucible (Miller)

*Week 4: Politics I (Silvija)

*Week 5: Politics II (Silvija)

Indicative texts/practitioners: Ausländer raus! (Schlingensiefel), State Britain (Wallinger), Battle of Orgreave (Deller)

Week 6 – Reading Week

*Week 7: Philosophy I (Milija)

*Week 8: Philosophy II (Milija)

Indicative texts/practitioners: Homebody/Kabul (Kushner), No Exit (Sartre), Happy Days (Beckett)

*Week 9: Computer Science I (Tim)

Indicative texts/practitioners: Stelarc, Eduardo Kac

*Week 10: Individual tutorial sessions on Portfolio Preparation will be scheduled in Week 10

At the end of term 1 students would be required to identify one of the disciplines covered as the basis of their practice, working up their proposal with group members. Term 2 is concerned with devising the practical work, the mark for which includes the proposal, publicity, performance and documentation.

TERM 2

*Week 1 – Proposal writing workshop

Week 2 – work on proposal and hand in end of week (no formal class – convenor available for support)

*Week 3 – feedback on proposal – tutor sessions for each group

*Week 4 – Devising Strategies workshop

*Week 5 – Documentation and publicity workshop

Week 6 reading week

Week 7 – Tech and rehearsal slots

*Week 8 – showings

*Week 9 – Writing a Critical review

Week 10 – work on crit review and hand in (no formal class – convenor available for support)

Learning outcomes

By the end of the module, students should be able to:

- Draw on frameworks, methodologies and concerns from other disciplines to interrogate theatre and performance
- Demonstrate competence in the different elements of theatre production (writing, directing, acting, design, the role of the audience)
- Produce critical responses to one's own artistic practice
- Reflect on the collaborative process
- Understand the purpose of and audience for, and be able to generate, suitable documentation of creative practice
- Produce publicity material in support of creative practice
