Description

Introductory description

This module introduces theories and practices of management in the media, creative and cultural industries. The module highlights the need for creative enterprise to connect with stakeholders inside and outside the business, and for creative practice to connect with markets, customers and partners.

Module aims

The aim is first to introduce students to management models and tools adapted to the distinctive challenges and conditions of media, creative and cultural industries. The second aim is to have students recognise that the business of cultural and media production depends upon relationships and capabilities beyond the ability to create excellent content.

Outline syllabus

This is an indicative module outline only to give an indication of the sort of topics that may be covered. Actual sessions held may differ.

Part 1: Structures and systems – what are we managing? (weeks 1-3)

- Overview of organisations in the cultural and media sector
- Teams, hierarchies and individuals
- Legal structures

Part 2: Finance and planning – how are we managing? (weeks 4-7)

- Understanding accounts: cashflow, balance sheets, profit and loss.
- Project management and planning
- Roles and responsibilities
- Organisational change

Part 3: Marketing and strategy – why / for whom are we managing? (weeks 8-10)

- Strategic planning
- Market environment
- Value chain
- Audience research
- Customer relationship management
- Marketing and promotion

In addition to the taught content, the module will include a field trip and case studies of cultural and media organisations and a visiting speaker.

Learning outcomes

By the end of the module, students should be able to:

- Demonstrate an understanding of core principles of management and marketing and their application in the media, cultural and creative industries.
- Demonstrate an understanding of how organisational and institutional structures influence management and creative practice in the media, cultural and creative industries
- Gather, interpret and present evidence, with which to analyse organisations and organisational cultures in the media, cultural and creative industries
- Reason critically and debate interpretations to identify the strengths and weaknesses of models and different scenarios
- Communicate what they have learned both orally and in writing
- Work collaboratively with others in seminar presentations and solve problems
